SUP 16 Annex 29AG Guidance notes for the data item in SUP 16 Annex 29R – Client Money and Asset Return (CMAR)

This annex contains guidance on the CMAR and is therefore addressed only to a firm which is subject to SUP 16.14.

General
Terms used in the CMAR bear the meaning ascribed to those terms in the Glossary, even though they do not appear in italicised form on the face of the data item, unless a contrary indication is given in this guidance.

In applying the CMAR and this guidance to a small AIFM’s excluded custody activities falling under SUP 16.14.4R(2)(e), any reference to a firm carrying on the regulated activity of safeguarding and administering investments includes excluded custody activities.

A firm is reminded that the effect of SUP 16.14.4R is that in relation to a firm to which CASS 5 (Client money: insurance mediation activity) and CASS 7 (Client money rules) apply, that firm should not report in the data item shown in SUP 16 Annex 29R any client money that it holds in accordance with CASS 5.

SUP 16.14.4R also has the effect that the data reported by a firm on the CMAR should only relate to client money and/or safe custody assets held by the firm, and should not relate to client money and/or safe custody assets in respect of which the firm merely has a mandate or any safe custody assets in respect of which the firm merely arranges safeguarding and administration of assets. The meaning of safe custody assets for the purposes of the CMAR and this guidance is set out in SUP 16.14.4R(2).

Firms are reminded of their obligation to determine their ‘CASS firm type’ categorisation in accordance with CASS 1A.2.2R.

A firm should include in any amount of client money that it reports any client money which it has allowed another person to hold or control in accordance with CASS 7.14.2R (for example, an exchange, clearing house, intermediate broker or OTC counterparty).

Reporting Period
The reporting period for the CMAR is the calendar month for which a CMAR is required to be completed in accordance with SUP 16.14.3R, including the first day and the last day of that month. For example, the January reporting period will be January 1 to January 31, regardless of whether or not any day in January is a business day.

Valuation
For the purposes of the CMAR, the FCA does not prescribe any particular methodology or frequency for valuing safe custody assets.

Reporting Client Money Balances using internal reconciliations
The guidance in this annex assumes that a firm uses one of the standard methods of internal client money reconciliation. Firms that use a non-standard method of internal client money reconciliation in accordance with CASS 7.15.17R should read the guidance in this annex in so far as it is consistent with that non-standard method.

Where this data item requires a firm to report any client money balances, unless otherwise specified the firm should report on the basis of balances used for its internal client money reconciliation carried out on the first business day following the reporting period in question. This means using the values contained in the firm’s internal records and ledgers, for example its cash book or other internal accounting records, rather than the values contained in the records it has obtained from banks and other third parties with whom it has placed client money (for example, bank statements).

Currency
The reporting currency for this data item should be GBP (sterling). For the purpose of calculating the value of the total amounts of client money and safe custody assets that it holds on any given day during a reporting period, a firm should, in relation to client money or safe custody assets denominated in a currency other than sterling, translate the value of that money or that safe custody asset into sterling at the previous day’s closing spot exchange rate.

FCA Guidance

A firm should state "Yes" or "No".

Pursuant to CASS 7.13.58R before adopting the alternative approach, a firm must send a written report to the FCA prepared by an independent auditor of the firm in line with a reasonable assurance engagement, stating the matters set out in CASS 7.13.58R(2).

Minutes of Committee Discussion

- It is usually the firms choice as to how they separate their types of business.
- Clarity is required as to how unclaimed money is defined and how this information is extracted from your system.
  - The rules state that if it is costly to extract this information, then it can be left out.
  - It can be problematic separating what is 'gone away' and what is un-cashed cheques.
  - Best Practice needs to be established for defining 'Gone Away' – a consistent approach will be more useful to the FCA.
- Question 8 does not refer directly to Gone Away's.
- JM has raised the question of what to do with low value unclaimed cheques. He is awaiting a response. However, even if the FCA is sympathetic, there is still a T&C issue.
- It was noted that it is very difficult to put a marker on the system for Gone Away's for Safe Custody Assets.
- Some questions were raised:
  - Can we come up with a definition of an unclaimed asset?
  - Can we see when a client last looked at their account to try to establish if they have gone away, or there has just been no activity?
  - Where an account holder is Deceased and no one has yet come forwards, is this unclaimed?
  - Does there have to be a positive response to establish if an investor has Gone Away? E.g. notification from the Post Office. Or can it be assumed under certain circumstances?

Best Practise Guidelines

From the meeting with the FCA it is clear that the FCA expect a firm to have a documented policy in relation to how they define and treat allocated but unclaimed client money (Gone Aways).

Below are a few examples of when a balance should be defined in the CMAR as allocated but unclaimed client money. The last one is extracted directly from the FCA rules.

- Where post to the client's last known address has been returned 'gone away'
- Where electronic payments have been returned by the payee's bank and follow-up has not been successful in paying the client or obtaining valid payment details within 28 days
- Where a series of cheque payments above a reasonable de minimis figure have remained unpresented for a substantial period of time
- Where there has been no movement on the client's balance for a period of at least six years (notwithstanding any payments or receipts of charges, interest or similar items)

The policy statement expected in June 2014 will include some new guidance in relation to how unclaimed client money and assets are treated and when these can be paid away to charity.

FCA Meeting Minutes

Could we also get a view whether the FCA has any additional guidance in terms of unclaimed money or assets re the following observations: Firms are reporting in many different ways here. E.g. un-presented cheques – how long should they have been un-presented for before they are 'unclaimed' for the purposes of the CMAR?

- FCA advised that clients that firms have lost touch with should be kept separate.
- There will be differences from firm to firm in how they establish if a client has Gone Away
- An un-presented cheque does not necessarily mean the client has Gone Away.
- There is not a direct link between un-presented cheques and Gone Aways.
- Some firms count un-presented cheques over 6 months old as Gone Away
- If a firm considers un-presented cheques over 6 months old to be Gone Away, then they should report them as such.
- CMAR does not prescribe when a firm should consider a client as Gone Away – this is down to the firm's policy.
- The Best Practice group is looking for guidance on what should happen.

1. FCA response is that it is down to individual firms' approach
2. JM advised that firms would prefer a rule basis for filling in forms, rather than as a judgement call. This will then allow firms to complete forms with consistency.
3. FCA advised that a firm should document their approach to Gone Away's. If the firm then is visited by the FCA and there is a big fluctuation in figures, or the firm's policy is way out of line with their peers, then this would raise concern.
4. In CASS 7.2.20 it states that if firms have recorded that a client is not contactable then there is an argument to move to unclaimed.
5. At what point does the money become un-claimable? – FCA advised that it is up to the firm to determine when it becomes 'gone away' and at this point it would move from un-presented to unclaimed.
6. JM highlighted that some underlying information is being reported differently by different firms, and that they are struggling to have a consistent industry-wide approach.
Most firms do not have the ability to identify Unclaimed Safe Custody Assets without significant system development.

- A Gone Away marker is required on the Asset side.
- Some firms already have a marker for Deceased and Gone Away. However, there are lots of legacy positions and so there may be accounts that have not been captured accordingly. Also, accounts held across different systems can cause an issue.
- It is felt that firms who do not report anything in this category are more likely to be challenged by the FCA.

Members felt it would be helpful if firms could give examples of how they establish Gone Away clients.

- Some firms use a positive response (e.g. notification from the Post office and others set clients to Gone Away if, for example, there have been a series of un-presented distribution cheques)
- As an aside, it was mentioned that there is a new rule, allowing a fund choice to be changed from income payaway to reinvestment if 3 distribution cheques in a row are uncashed.

Some members suggested that on the CMAR return, Unclaimed monies should be entered into one box, and Gone Away in another. However, the guidance states that only one row should be used for these 2 bits of information, suggesting that the figures should be merged.

Long discussions required for the completion of Question 8 serve to prove that there is not a straightforward answer.

FCA pointed out that the Consultation Paper will have an effect on CMAR and that we will need to ensure our Best Practice guidance takes into account future changes.

FCA advised of 2 direct email in-boxes that members should use for individual queries.
- General and policy queries: cassgeneral@fca.org.uk
- Operational queries: Cass.queries@fca.org.uk

FCA Guidance

In relation to each of the investment activities or services identified, a firm should report in this data field the number of clients for whom it holds client money or safe custody assets in respect of the activity or service in question.

If a firm holds client money or safe custody assets in respect of more than one activity or service for the same client, the firm should include this client in the number reported for each activity or service as appropriate. This means that the same client may be reported for more than one activity or service in this data field.

Comments / Best Practise

- Clients may be double counted if firms hold accounts across multiple systems or in different business lines.
- Members felt that the FCA use this figure to show a trend, and so this figure may not need to be accurate, as long as the method for arriving at the figure is consistent.
- Many firms de-duplicate to give a more accurate figure, but there is inconsistency around how firms do this.

FCA meeting

- Would you expect this figure to reflect unique clients only, for example - if a client holds both cash and assets they should only count as 1 client.
- FCA expect if a client holds both cash and assets, they should only count as 1 client

This would be at the type of business activity level. It is possible to have a client across two or more type of business activity level, when this happens the expectation is the client would be counted in each different activity level.

If a client has multiple entries in a client money account, they should only be included once, therefore some deduplication within a business activity level is expected. De-duplicating can be a manual process, and the FCA has recognised this. They are more concerned with a consistent approach than manually de-duplicating every record. Accurate de-duplicating may not be possible (for example if there is no policy number or a client’s name has been recorded slightly differently) If a client is held on more than one system (e.g. for different products) it may be counted twice. The FCA is comfortable with this as long as the firm is being consistent.
Some firms count the number of clients on the register, rather than the number of clients with balances in the Client Money accounts. For example under a DVP model, there may only be 20 clients with money in the Client Money Account, but there may be 20,000 clients in total. Some firms would report 20, and some 20,000.

- De-duplication requires manual effort, and can be inaccurate.
  - Some firms who use TPAs have to re-work information provided from the TPA to complete the form.
  - JM to raise the question of de-duplication with the FCA. Firms would prefer if de-duplication was not required, due to the manual effort and possible inaccuracy of the task.

FCA Guidance

BC - Balance of client money

In relation to each of the investment activities or services identified, a firm should report in this data field the total amount of client money that it held belonging to clients in respect of the activity or service in question. A firm should report client money balances on the basis of balances used in the internal client money reconciliation that the firm carried out on the first business day following the reporting period in question.

Paragraph 8A describes how allocated but unclaimed client money should, where possible, be identified as a separate business activity in its own row (together with allocated but unclaimed safe custody assets). The balance shown in that row may also include any balance that is included in data field 17.

Comments / Best Practise

- These should be based on a firm’s internal reconciliations and either the resource or requirement can be used as long as consistent throughout the return.
  - It was pointed out that not all firms have internal reconciliations. In these instances then Client Entitlement should be used.
  - The rules specify that firms must do an internal reconciliation. However this is for the Standard Method. Many firms do not operate to the Standard Method.

Unclaimed Assets should be stripped out of the Internal Rec figures.

BD - Value of safe custody assets as at reporting period end date

FCA Guidance

In relation to each of the investment activities or services identified, a firm should report in this data field the total value of safe custody assets that it holds belonging to clients in respect of the activity or service in question, as at the last business day of the reporting period. Paragraph 8A describes how allocated but unclaimed safe custody assets should, where possible, be identified as a separate business activity in its own row (together with allocated but unclaimed client money).

Comments / Best Practise

- Except assets that are not normally subject to a valuation. In this instance, FCA have advised that they should be valued against any reasonable valuation method.

This relates to the value at the point of reconciliation. Therefore if assets are reconciled monthly, this value will be the same as the highest and lowest values in Q11 & 12.

Firms should document their policy for valuing assets, e.g. is the asset included on traded date or settlement date. The key purpose of the CMAR is to have consistent data reported month on month, therefore key to define policy.

Best practise would be to use the same valuation basis as is reported to the clients.
A firm should report the highest total amount of client money that it held at any point during the reporting period.

In relation to data fields 9 to 12, a firm should ensure that it includes in the amount or value reported any client money or safe custody assets that it is holding or in respect of which it is safeguarding and administering investments, which has or have been placed with a third party custodian, either by a custodian with which that firm has deposited that money or those assets, or by that firm if it is a custodian.

In relation to data fields 9 to 12, a firm should determine the lowest and highest figures by reference to the data that it has recorded in the internal records and accounts the firm holds that relate to the reporting period in question.

Section 3 Segregation of client money

13A - Type

FCA Guidance
A firm should identify the types of institution with which it has placed client money. CASS 7.13.3R identifies the type of institution with which a firm must promptly place into one or more accounts client money that it receives. CASS 7.14.2R identifies the circumstances in which a firm may allow another person, such as an exchange, a clearing house, an intermediate broker or an OTC counterparty, to hold or control client money.
For each institution with which it has placed client money, the firm should identify in this data field whether the client money was:

(a) Deposited with a CRD credit institution;
(b) Placed with a clearing house;
(c) Placed with an exchange;
(d) Placed with an intermediate broker;
(e) Placed in a qualifying money market fund;
(f) Deposited with a bank authorised in a third country; and
(g) Deposited with a central bank.

In relation to any client money a firm has placed with an OTC counterparty and/or any other person, the firm should select option (d).

Comments / Best Practises

- For the majority of firms this is the Banks. Normally “CRD Credit Institution” will be selected if relates to a Bank.

13B - Institution where client money held

FCA Guidance

A firm should report the full name and firm reference number (if applicable) of the individual legal entity with which it has placed client money.

Comments / Best Practise

Include the name of the bank and its FCA firms reference number (FRN)

13C - Client money balances

FCA Guidance

A firm should report the total amount of client money which it has placed with each institution identified in 13B.

A firm should report client money balances on the basis of balances used in the internal client money reconciliation that the firm carried out on the first business day following the reporting period in question.

A firm should include in the client money balance the aggregate balance of any allocated but unclaimed money which a firm continues to treat as such. For example, client money balances held in respect of clients whom the firm is no longer able to contact.

The balance shown in that row may also include any balance that is included in data field 17.

Comments / Best Practise

- Use the internal client money reconciliation (either resource or requirement) and include unallocated and unclaimed figures.
- The total in this field should equal what is reported in Question 8.

13D - Country of incorporation of the institution

FCA Guidance

A firm should report the name of the country in which each institution with which it places client money is incorporated using the appropriate two letter ISO code.

Comments / Best Practise

See FCA guidance above

13E - Group entity

FCA Guidance

A firm should indicate in this data field whether each institution with which it has placed client money is or is not a relevant group entity within the meaning of CASS 7.13.21R. A firm should note that the definition in CASS 7.13.21R is specific to CASS and the entities which comprise it may not be the same as those which comprise the firm’s group.

Comments / Best Practise

For most firms unless they have placed funds with a group bank.

Section 4 Client money requirement and resource

14 - Client money requirement

FCA Guidance

In relation to a firm that follows one of the standard method of internal client money reconciliation, that firm should report its client money requirement, calculated in accordance with CASS 7.16.10R.

A firm should report its client money requirement on the basis of the internal client money reconciliation that the firm carried out on the first business day following the reporting period in question.
A firm should include in the client money requirement the aggregate balance of any allocated but unclaimed client money which the firm continues to treat as such. For example, client money balances held in respect of clients whom the firm is no longer able to contact.

The balance reported for the client money requirement should be inclusive of the balances that a firm is also reporting for data fields 15-18.

Comments / Best Practise
- This should be based on the reconciliation completed on the 1st working day of the month in relation to the last working day of the month.
- Internal rec figure and it should equal what has been given in Questions 8 ad 13.

A firm should include in the client money resource the aggregate balance of any allocated but unclaimed money which a firm continues to treat as client money. For example, client money balances held in respect of clients whom the firm is no longer able to contact.

Comments / Best Practise

From the Internal Reconciliation

FCA Question

- If there was a funding requirement the previous day should this funding be included in the resource figure in the current internal reconciliation? Some firms do not recognise the previous days funding requirement within the resource they effectively reverse it the following day and calculate a new funding figure for the current day. Other firms post the funding amount to the GL and include as part of the current days resource. Does the FCA have a view on the differing treatments above?

- For example, if a firm had a funding requirement of £1,000,000 on day one, and on day 2 a funding requirement of £1,000,001:
  1. In the first example, the firm would fund £1,000,000 and on day 2 reverse this and then fund £1,000,001
  2. In the second example the firm would fund £1,000,000 and on day 2 would fund a further £1

- a. PM raised a concern that this may not be a CMAR issue, but a bigger issue on how the Reconciliation is completed.
- b. PM will raise this with colleagues within the FCA

FCA email response.

When performing an internal client money reconciliation in accordance with the standard methods (on Day 2, using numbers from cob on Day 1), we would expect a single top-up/withdrawal representing the difference between the client money resource and the client money requirement, ie your Option 2.

When completing the CMAR, where Day 1 is the last day of the month, we would expect the client money resource to be the figure in the firm’s accounting records as at cob on Day 1, which should reflect any transfers made on Day 1 under CASS 7.6.13.

To confirm the context of our earlier discussions, the comments I make above are on a generalised basis. The facts in any particular case could lead to a different outcome and nothing in this email should be construed to be individual guidance. We normally only provide individual guidance to a person in relation to its own particular circumstances or plans. If any of your members who follow Option 1 would like to discuss further, please ask them to submit a question to cass.general@fca.org.uk.

20 - Excess (+) / shortfall (-) of client money resource against client money requirement

FCA Guidance

A firm should report in this data field the amount by which its client money resource is greater than its client money requirement (to be reported in the data item as a positive amount), or as the case may be, the amount by which its client money requirement is greater than its client money resource (to be reported in the data item as a negative amount).

Where an excess or shortfall does not exist following a firm’s internal client money reconciliation, the firm should report '0' for this data field.

Comments / Best Practise

This is the difference between Question 14 and 19. No issues. Answer should match Q21 – clarified for the avoidance of doubt with FCA.

21 - Adjustments made to withdraw an excess or rectify a shortfall identified as a result of an internal client money reconciliation.

FCA Guidance

A firm should report the amount of money that it added to correct a shortfall or, as the case may be, that it withdrew reflecting an excess.

Comments / Best Practise

Answer should match Q20 – clarified for the avoidance of doubt with FCA.

- This will be the same as the figure reported in Question 20, unless a breach has occurred on that day.

A question was raised as to whether it would be helpful if it asked on the return whether the non-standard method was being used. Members felt that it would.

In relation to data fields 14 to 21, a firm should report by reference to the results of its internal client money reconciliation carried out on the first business day following the reporting period in question.

Data fields 15-18 relate to client money balances identified in a firm’s internal records and ledgers, for example its cash book or other internal accounting records, that form part of the client money requirement reported in data field 14.

Section 5 Client money reconciliations

22 - Internal client money reconciliation

FCA Guidance

A firm should identify in this data field the frequency with which it performs internal client money reconciliation.

Comments / Best Practise
This is daily for most firms – no issues.

If more than one frequency is used, it was suggested that a comment should be added to account for less frequently reconciled accounts.

FCA Guidance
A firm should identify in this data field the frequency with which it performs external client money reconciliation.

Comments / Best Practise
• This is daily for most firms – no issues.

If more than one frequency is used, it was suggested that a comment should be added to account for less frequently reconciled accounts.

FCA Guidance
A firm should identify in this data field the number of unresolved client money items and allocate each item to one of the specified time bands according to the length of time for which it has remained unresolved.

For the purposes of this data field, the number of unresolved client money items includes: (a) the number of individual unresolved discrepancies identified as part of a firm’s internal client money reconciliations (see CASS 7.15.12R); and (b) the number of individual unresolved discrepancies identified as part of a firm’s external client money reconciliations (see CASS 7.15.29R), but not those unresolved discrepancies that have arisen solely as a result of timing differences between the accounting systems of a third party providing the statement or confirmation and that of the firm. In both cases, only include those items which have remained unresolved for period of six calendar days or more.

For the purposes of this data field, the number of unresolved items should also include any individual items recorded in a firm’s internal records and accounts as “unallocated client money” in accordance with CASS 7.13.36R(2) which have remained unresolved for period of six calendar days or more.

A firm should also report the balances of these individual unreconciled items as appropriate in data fields 15 and 16.

Comments / Best Practise
 o This is the number of individual discrepancy breaks.
 o Un-reconciled includes unresolved monies that have not yet been allocated. The rules specify that firms have 10 days to allocate.
 o This could include items where you are awaiting further information.

Most firms are comfortable with this section.

Also worth noting that the ageing categories are based on calendar days not working days.

Section 6 Segregation of safe custody assets

FCA Guidance
In order to complete this section a firm will need to group the safe custody assets it held at the reporting period end date by the method of registration used (25A), the means by which the assets were held (25G) and the name of the institution with which the assets were deposited or registered (25B). Each group of safe custody assets so identified should be reported as a separate row.

When reporting dematerialised safe custody assets a firm holds in a collective investment scheme, a firm has the option to report the holdings in either one of the following ways:

(1) Per fund manager (ie, for every fund manager with whom the firm has holdings registered) it should use a new row to report the relevant holdings; or
(2) On an aggregate basis by reference to each variance of data fields 25A, 25E and 25F (where relevant, ie, for each variance, such as holdings based in different countries and/or different methods of legal title registration) the firm should use a new row.

For example, an asset held in one country in the name of a nominee company should be in a different row from an asset held in the same country in the name of the client, and also from an asset held in another country in the name of the same nominee company.

Annex 1 to this guidance sets out an example of reporting under either of these options.

25A - How registered

FCA Guidance
For each group of safe custody assets a firm holds in a collective investment scheme, a firm has the option to report the holdings in either one of the following categories of person in whose name legal title to the safe custody assets were registered during the reporting period:

(a) the client;
(b) the firm;
(c) a third party;
(d) a nominee company which is controlled by the firm;
(e) a nominee company which is controlled by an affiliated company;
(f) a nominee company which is controlled by an investment exchange;
(g) a nominee company which is controlled by a third party with whom financial instruments are deposited under CASS 6.3 (Depositing assets and arranging for assets to be deposited with third parties).

Firms that registered the legal title to safe custody assets in joint names should select option (a) if one of those names is the client’s name. If none of those names are the client’s name then the firm should select an option that corresponds to any one of those named persons.

In relation to safe custody assets that a firm held in its physical possession and for which the firm did not register legal title (for example bearer notes), the firm should select option (b).

Comments / Best Practise

Name of institution were held - A question was raised as to whether this should be the custodian, or sub-custodian.
- There were differing opinions around the room – some firms report to custodian level and some to sub-custodian.
- There is a discrepancy between the CMAR form and the guidance. One refers to ‘where held’ and the other to ‘where deposited’.
- CREST is referred to in the guidance as a custodian. This is confusing as CREST is purely record holding. The Guidance suggests that CREST is holding assets.

FCA Question

- at what level should firms be reporting here, custodian or sub-custodian level. Clarification required why CREST referred to in guidance as views from the group were that CREST was a clearing system not a place where safe custody assets were deposited?
- Also how should commercial property held within a SIPP be reported – will be registered in the name of the trustee, but deeds may be with solicitors (where there are any) and the property should be registered with the Land Registry...

FCA accepted that CREST was not a place where safe custody assets are deposited, but advised that CREST is a reporting 3rd party institution.

25B - Name of institution where safe custody assets held/registered

FCA Guidance

For each group of safe custody assets that a firm (in carrying on the regulated activity of safeguarding and administering investments) held at the reporting period end date, the firm should report, as relevant, the identity of the third party institution with which it deposited the safe custody assets. In relation to any non-dematerialised safe custody assets which it held in its physical possession, a firm should enter its own name in the data field.

In identifying any third party institution in this data field, a firm should ensure that it specifies the full name or the firm reference number (if applicable) of the individual legal entity with which the safe custody assets were deposited.

In relation to any dematerialised safe custody assets which a firm held as the sole custodian the firm should report the name of the central securities depositary with which the safe custody assets were registered, for example Euroclear UK & Ireland, and should select ‘other’ when completing data field 25G.

In relation to any dematerialised safe custody assets a firm holds in a collective investment scheme, a firm should report, either:

- The name of the fund manager who retains the regulatory responsibility for maintaining the legal register for those safe custody assets, if the firm is reporting by fund manager (for example, in respect of a [UK OEIC, the ACD]; or
- The term “collective investment scheme” if the firm is reporting on an aggregate basis.

Comments / Best Practise

No issues

25C - Number of lines of stock

FCA Guidance

In relation to each combination of registration and holding method identified in 25A and 25G, a firm should report the total number of lines of stock being safe custody assets that the firm held at the reporting period end date. As a firm is only being asked to enter the total number of lines of stock in relation to each identified institution, it is not expected to identify separately safe custody assets belonging to an individual client.

For the purpose of this data field, a firm should treat each stock which bears its own CUSIP or ISIN number, or any individual collective investment scheme as a separate line of stock.

Comments / Best Practise

Question raised with FCA on commercial properties within a SIPP.

- how many lines of stock commercial properties within a SIPP should be reported, 1? Or does 5 properties = 5 lines of stock?
- If the real property within the portfolio is treated under CASS rules, then the FCA would expect it to come under Reported numbers on CMAR
- There is an issue as property is not covered by MiFid.
- It could be part of CASS
- If a firm has SIPPs just containing real estate, it will not be caught by CASS rules and so will not be necessary to report on CMAR.
- It should be included if property only forms part of the assets within the SIPP.
- It should not be included if it is the only asset in the SIPP.
- FCA advised that only custody assets need to be reported. If it is not a custody asset, then it is out of scope.
- FCA advised that multiple properties can be reported as a single line.
  1. Where held? Lawyer/bank/where ever it is physically deposited.
25D - Value of safe custody assets as at reporting period end date

FCA Guidance
As at the reporting period end date, a firm should calculate the total value of the safe custody assets reported on each row and enter that value in the data field.

Comments / Best Practise
No issues – total should tie back to value of Custody Assets

25E - Country of incorporation of the institution

FCA Guidance
In relation to each institution identified in 25B, a firm should report the name of the country in which that institution is incorporated using the appropriate two letter ISO code.

In relation to dematerialised safe custody assets a firm holds in a collective investment scheme, the firm should report the country of incorporation of the relevant fund manager who has retained regulatory responsibility for registering units in the collective investment scheme. This means that a firm will need to have at least one row per country of incorporation of relevant fund managers regardless of whether the firm is reporting for fund manager or on an aggregate basis.

Comments / Best Practise
No issues

25F - Group entity

FCA Guidance
A firm should indicate in this data field whether each institution with which it placed safe custody assets is or is not a member of that firm’s group. In relation to any dematerialised safe custody assets a firm holds in a collective investment scheme, the firm should treat the [fund manager] of that scheme as the relevant institution.

Comments / Best Practise
No issues

25G - How held?

FCA Guidance
For each group of safe custody assets that a firm (in carrying on the regulated activity of safeguarding and administering investments) held at the reporting period end date, the firm should identify in this data field how the safe custody assets were held:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Option</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>(a)</td>
<td>held in the firm’s physical possession (for example any non-dematerialised assets such as bearer notes); Firm physical;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(b)</td>
<td>deposited with a third party custodian (this may include any third party that has responsibility to the firm for the safe custody assets, such as a sub-custodian); 3rd party custodian</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(c)</td>
<td>deposited with a third party exchange and/or clearing house; Exchange/Clearing House</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(d)</td>
<td>deposited with a third party intermediary; or Intermediary</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(e)</td>
<td>deposited with any other third party (where none of the above options adequately describe how the safe custody assets are held). Other</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

In relation to any dematerialised safe custody assets which a firm held as the sole custodian the firm should select “Other” and report the name of the central securities depositary with which the safe custody assets were registered, for example Euroclear UK & Ireland, when completing data field 25G.

In relation to any dematerialised safe custody assets a firm holds in a collective investment scheme, the firm should select "Other".

Comments / Best Practise

A question was raised as to whether people include fractional roundings in this section.

When fractional roundings are included, this throws numbers from single figures into the 100's.

- Some firms report Fractional Roundings, and some do not.
- JM to raise this with FCA. General feeling is that firms would prefer NOT to report Fractional Roundings.

FCA Guidance

A firm should identify in this data field the number of unresolved safe custody assets items and allocate each item to one of the specified time bands according to the length of time for which it has remained unresolved.

For the purposes of this data field, the number of unresolved safe custody assets items refers to the number of individual discrepancies (e.g., custody breaks) identified as part of a firm’s external custody reconciliation which have remained unresolved for a specific period of time.

CASS 6.6.48G provides that a discrepancy should not be considered to be resolved until it is fully investigated and any associated shortfall is made good.

In relation to the 30-day field, a firm should report items which have remained unreconciled for at least 30 days but no more than 59 days.

In relation to the 60-day field, a firm should report items which have remained unreconciled for at least 60 days, but no more than 89 days.

In relation to the 90-day field, a firm should report items which have remained unreconciled for at least 90 days.

| A firm could define a policy as to how they treat fractional roundings in relation to the CMAR. E.g. A fractional unit is not a stock break, but is the mathematical consequence of aggregation. These fractional amounts couldn’t be distributed to customers anyway (e.g. on an insolvency). | Should firms include fractional roundings (the mathematical consequence of aggregating deals on platforms, for example) in this figure again inconsistencies between member firms in that some do and some don’t:
- FCA asked if this was on the internal or external reconciliation. What the FCA are looking for is the aging of differences on external reconciliations. Fractional roundings fall outside of this.
- FCA recommended that firms review CP13/5 regarding discrepancies. |

FCA Guidance

A firm should indicate whether at any point during the reporting period one of the situations referred to in CASS 6.6.57R arose, in which the firm was obligated to notify the FCA.

Some of the notification requirements in CASS 6.6.57R only apply where a firm materially fails to comply with a rule (ie, a breach of the rule having occurred), while others apply where the firm was unable to comply with a rule (ie, a firm had not yet breached the relevant rule but became aware that it would, in the future, either continuously or for a specified period, be unable to comply with the specified rule). Therefore, a firm should therefore base its response only on those breaches that would be notifiable.

FCA Guidance

In relation to data fields 31 and 33, a firm should answer “Yes” if it failed to comply with any of the rules specified in those data fields at any point during the reporting period in question, whether or not it is in compliance at the end of the reporting period.

A firm’s responses to data fields 31 and 33 should only relate to breaches that occurred within the particular reporting period in question and not to any breach that may have occurred in a previous reporting period, even if the breach remains unresolved.

A firm should answer “N/A” as appropriate to data fields 31 and 33 if it did not hold client money or safe custody assets during the reporting period.

In relation to data fields 32 and 34, a firm should only answer “Yes” if the firm has acknowledged any breaches in data fields 31 or 33, and all such breaches were notified as required within the reporting period in question.

CASS 6.5.13R and CASS 7.6.16R require that the FCA be informed without delay of any of the matters in respect of which notification is required by those rules. Submission of the CMAR within the time limit specified in SUP 16.14.3R does not discharge the obligations in those rules and a firm remains obliged to notify the FCA as soon as it becomes aware that any of the circumstances described in those rules has arisen.

A firm should answer ‘N/A’ for data fields 32 and 34 if the firm has answered either ‘No’ or ‘N/A’ for data fields 31 and 33 respectively.
FCA have confirmed that it is their expectation that ongoing breaches only need to be reported in the month in which they occurred (i.e. that if they occurred in the previous month, but not discovered until the current month, they do not need to be reported), and that even if the breach continues and prevents the firm complying in the following month, this does not need to be included in the return. However the CMAR return for the month in which the breach died occurs should be resubmitted if it doesn’t appropriately acknowledge that breach.

We don’t believe that the new CMAR guidance suggests we should notify all breaches to FCA as they are discovered.

Section 9 Outsourcing and offshoring

FCA Guidance

In relation to its business that is subject to CASS, a firm should report in data field 35 outsourcing and offshoring arrangements that it has established which it judges to be material to that business, either by reason of their scale or their importance.

For the purposes of data fields 35A to 35D, ‘outsourcing’ refers to where a firm outsources part of its client money and/or custody asset operations to a third party and ‘offshoring’ refers to where a firm’s client money and/or custody asset operations are managed through a branch established by it outside the United Kingdom.

35A - Who do you outsource or offshore your client money and/or custody asset operations to?

FCA Guidance

A firm should state either:
- (a) the full name of the legal entity that business has been outsourced to;
- or
- (b) if the business is offshored, the name of the firm itself.

An FCA firm reference number should also be provided for any firm which is authorised by or registered with the FCA.

Comments / Best Practise

A question was raised as to whether this refers back to the Sub Custodian question. – it was felt that this should just be the out-source company, and not anyone who they then outsource to.
